Citicus ONE gets 'outstanding' rating in SC Magazine Risk and Policy Management review

UK company Citicus Limited's Citicus ONE risk and compliance management software has received a 5-star 'outstanding' rating from SC Magazine in its annual group test of risk and policy management tools. Citicus ONE was given the highest rating for its features, ease of use and value for money; and an overall verdict describing it as a:

"very good solution for enterprise risk and compliance management."

The SC Magazine review draws particular attention to the way in which Citicus ONE presents visualization of risk and compliance status in its many graphical reports. It also highlights the software's capabilities for risk management of real-time industrial control systems.

Other features of Citicus ONE emphasised by the review include:

- the extensive email-integrated workflow capabilities
- its wizard-based, easy-to-use graphical interface
- the extensive libraries of built-in controls including those applicable to IT systems, SCADA systems, physical sites and vendors
- the remediation planning capabilities, including the ability to link actions to specific control improvements
- its ability to analyze information on incidents – both historical and future
- its flexible implementation options including software-as-a-service and on-site installation.

Responding to SC Magazine's review, Citicus managing director Simon Oxley says:

"We're delighted to get another great review from SC Magazine. This is a strong endorsement of what we have achieved in collaboration with our customers who are using Citicus ONE for an ever-growing range of governance, risk and compliance requirements."
