

Citicus ONE highly rated in SC Magazine Risk and Policy Management review

UK company Citicus Limited reported that its Citicus ONE risk and compliance management software has received a high rating from SC Magazine in its annual group test of risk and policy management tools. Citicus ONE was given a five-star 'outstanding' rating for its features, performance and documentation and an overall verdict describing the software as a "strong risk assessment-driven tool" with no notable weaknesses.

The SC Magazine reviews draws particular attention to the way in which Citicus ONE provides role-based results to users, saying, "Reporting is a strength of this product. Reports are largely graphical and interactive. The visualization capabilities of the product are well done".

Other features of Citicus ONE highlighted by the review include:

- the ease of configuring the control assessment framework to local requirements
- the remediation planning capabilities, including the ability to link actions to specific control improvements
- its ability to analyze information on incidents – both historical and future
- its scalability to handle environments of any size.

Responding to SC Magazine's review, Citicus managing director Simon Oxley says:

"We're very pleased to get another great review from SC Magazine's group test process. This is a strong endorsement of what we have achieved in collaboration with our customers who are using Citicus ONE for an ever-growing range of governance, risk and compliance requirements."
